

Tulane English Department Presents

All-New, All-Negro: Orrin C. Evans & the Golden Age of Comics

Before Black Panther... there was Lion Man!!

Monday, March 21
6:00pm

Rogers Memorial Chapel

Qiana Whitted, Professor of English and African American Studies at the University of South Carolina, is author of the Eisner Award-winning book, EC Comics: Race, Shock, and Social Protest and co-editor of the collection on Comics and the U.S. South. She is currently editing a book on blackness in early American comics and she's written the introductory essay for the forthcoming collection of Black Panther comics for Marvel's new Penguin Classics Collection.

For more information, contact:

Kate Adams:
kadams8@tulane.edu