TULANE

The Newcomb Art Department at Tulane University offers a two-year MFA program with full tuition waivers and an additional assistantship stipend for all admitted graduate students.

Students are provided with a private studio and 24-hour access to state-of-the-art facilities. Sculpture houses an extensive metal foundry and wood shop. Ceramics includes general studio workrooms as well as clay and glaze mixing rooms and kiln room. Glass houses both a hot and cold shop. Printmaking has facilities for intaglio, lithography and silkscreen as well as its own darkroom. Photography includes graduate and main darkrooms, film processing, a print mounting room, a lighting studio, lecture and demo rooms and an advanced digital imaging room with an Imacon film scanner and large format inkjet printers. Painting and drawing maintains four rooms with full walls of natural north light and color-balanced lighting.

The 1,600 sq. ft. Carroll Gallery in the Newcomb Art Wing is dedicated to student and faculty exhibitions, providing opportunities for showing new student work in addition to regular thesis exhibitions. The new 3,500-sq. ft. Newcomb Art Museum features temporary exhibitions of contemporary and historic visual art on a year-round basis.
