

J.E. Land Fund for SLA Graduate Student Travel

November, 2018

The School of Liberal Arts is pleased to help support graduate education with the J.E. Land Fund for Graduate Education. The fund provides travel support for SLA graduate students who have been invited to attend professional conferences to present their work in the form of invited papers, lectures and presentations. Travel support will be up to $1000 per student, per year and can support registration, coach travel, and accommodations. Students may only receive one award, for one conference event, per academic year.

Students will need to apply for the support via electronic application / email, preferably 30 days before the travel begins. The application should include:

- a one-page explanation of the conference and the paper to be presented
- a copy of their letter of invitation or acceptance,
- brief explanation of the significance of their participation for their professional career
- an itemized budget
- a list of any other funding support applied for or received with dollar amount
- current CV

Requests for funding should be sent to Kevin Gotham, Associate Dean, SLA at: kgotham@tulane.edu .

Deadlines

Applications will be accepted three times per year: NOTE UPDATED DEADLINES

- December 1 for travel in the Spring semester (January through April),
- April 1 for travel in the summer (May through August), and
- August 1 for travel in the Fall semester (September through December).
